Hello to all,

Greetings from rain-soaked Cuba, forget the advice that it never rains down here, Isidore left us with several inches of rain over the last 2 days. What a difference from the typically hot and steamy days/nights. Clothing-wise, as previously noted, short-sleeved knit shirts, cargo pants, boots are the usual dress, plus shorts, tee shirts, work-out clothes for other times. Also, hats are a must for us follicle-challenged individuals.

[redacted] arrived on Thursday as [redacted] departed. We are now firmly entrenched in the BAU living quarters, a 2 bedroom apartment with a full kitchen. Spartan-like with no rugs, curtains, etc, but comfortable enough with a nice TV/VCR, etc. Someone does need to follow up on the male/female living quarters as I had to stay in the Bachelor Quarters prior to [redacted] leaving. That's a pain because of its location away from everything else.

My plaudits again to [redacted] and [redacted] for setting this entire "mission" in motion, they did a great job of networking the BAU into the mainstream. MAJOR CASE 188

Synopsis: Documentation of CIRG/NCAVC mission statement for services being provided on-site at GTMO

Reference 265A-MM-C99102 Serial 184

Details: The NCAVC was directed to coordinate behavioral resources for the FBI as indicated in referenced communication. An NCAVC/BAU on-site assessment and subsequent report was provided to FBIHQ, Miami Division, and GTMO. As a result of this assessment, the NCAVC was requested by GTMO management to provide on-site assistance to the interview process. The NCAVC currently is rotating two SSAs every 45 days to assist with the interview process concerning the detainees housed at GTMO.

The male/female issue keeps changing. As I told [Redacted] earlier today, the JAG Commander advised that she did not believe that the recent General Order was meant to apply to a situation like ours. My unsolicited input, it would be extremely difficult to have a male and a female in the BAU hooch. Numerous obvious problems such as bathroom issues, relaxation dress issues, etc. Enough of that

Hello to all,

Well, [redacted] survived Tropical Storm Lili just fine. The storm produced about 4 hours of heavy rain and wind (Saturday night/Sunday morning) but it spared us any damage. After the abnormal amount of rainfall over the last ten days, the Island has greened up considerably. The FBI CP and the JITF had to be completely taken down and then put back together 2 times due to the changing forecast. That was a pain, but now everything is back to normal. We were even "confined to quarters" from Saturday afternoon until noon on Sunday with no street traffic allowed. [redacted] used this time to get to know each other a little better.
